TRANSFORMING THE IVORY TOWER

Models for gender equality and social justice

Edited by Deborah Gabriel

INSIDE THE IVORY TOWER

Narratives of women of colour surviving and thriving in British academia

and Shirley Anne Tate

Dr Gabriel leads pioneering research through the Black British Academics network. Her work is interdisciplinary and broadly concerned with the dynamics of race, gender and culture in and through media, communication and higher education. These areas of inquiry are approached from a critical race/Black feminist standpoint to analyse the relationships between race, power, privilege and inequality. She developed the Ivory Tower Project and led two research teams on two major publications: Inside the Ivory Tower and Transforming the Ivory Tower.

Public Speaker

In addition to presenting her research at international conferences around the world, Dr Gabriel is a frequent guest, keynote speaker and panellist at academic, community and media events. She is frequently called upon as a media commentator to offer expert analysis, especially around issues relating to race and inequality. She has appeared across television, radio, online and print in the UK and US.
